To: The Individual Responsible for Preparing the Financial Statements for Large Bank Holding Companies (FR Y-9C) Located in the Second Federal Reserve District

Subject: Bank Holding Company Reporting Requirements for June 30, 2000

Enclosed are two copies of the following report forms and instructions for the June 30, 2000 reporting date:

C The Consolidated Financial Statements for Bank Holding Companies (FR Y-9C);

C The Parent Company Only Financial Statements for Large Bank Holding Companies (FR Y-9LP);

C The Quarterly Financial Statements of Nonbank Subsidiaries of Bank Holding Companies (FR Y-11Q); and

We have also enclosed the optional worksheets to compute risk-based capital ratios for the consolidated bank holding company.

Supplemental instructions concerning accounting and reporting issues affecting the FR Y-9C report are included in Attachment I. There are no revisions either to the FR Y-9C, FR Y-9LP, FR Y-9CS, FR Y-11Q, and FR Y-8 report forms or instructions.
FR Y-8 Reporting Criteria

Any bank holding company with total consolidated assets of $300 million or more that meets the other specified reporting criteria must file an FR Y-8 report regardless of whether the bank holding company had any intercompany transactions during the reporting period. If such a bank holding company has no intercompany transactions to report, then a report must be submitted with zeros (-0-) in all items. Please note that there are proposed revisions to the FR Y-8 for implementation with the September 30, 2000 as of date. You will be notified of the final revisions once they become available.

Reporting Revisions for Year 2000

The passage of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act (GLBA) during the fourth quarter of 1999 permits qualified bank holding companies to elect to become financial holding companies and to engage in expanded financial activities. Financial holding companies are required to continue to comply with the Federal Reserve’s reporting requirements. Financial holding companies that meet the reporting requirements of either the FR Y-9C or the FR Y-9SP must continue to file these reports.

In addition, on an interim basis, all financial holding companies filing the FR Y-9C or FR Y-9SP reports will be required to complete the FR Y-9CS, Supplement to the Consolidated Financial Statements for Bank Holding Companies, and submit this supplement with either the quarterly FR Y-9C report or the semiannual FR Y-9SP report. In a multi-tiered organization, that includes one or more financial holding companies, only the top-tier bank holding company that files the FR Y-9C is required to file the FR Y-9CS as of the June 30, 2000 reporting date.

The FR Y-9CS supplement is intended to be a temporary report while the Federal Reserve reviews its regulatory reporting requirements and makes any necessary revisions in light of the new legislation. The information requested on the FR Y-9CS may change from one reporting period to another. However, the Federal Reserve will make every effort to notify financial holding companies in a timely manner when revisions are anticipated. Please note that if you are not an FHC, you should not file a FR Y-9CS report.

Reports Submission

An original and two copies (one-sided) of each completed bank holding company report must be returned to this bank by mail or messenger by the dates listed below. Under the Regulatory Reports Monitoring Program, the timeliness of receipt of these reports will be monitored. FASB Statement No. 133

In June 1998, the Financial Accounting Standards Board (FASB) issued Statement No. 133, Accounting for Derivative Instruments and Hedging Activities. This statement establishes accounting and reporting standards for derivative instruments, including certain derivative instruments embedded in other contracts, and for hedging activities. Under Statement No. 133, bank holding companies must recognize all derivatives as either assets or liabilities on the balance sheet and must measure those instruments at fair value. If certain conditions are met, a derivative may be specifically designated as a "fair value hedge," a "cash flow hedge," or a hedge of a foreign currency exposure of a net investment in a foreign operation. The accounting for changes in the fair value of a derivative (that is, gains and losses) depends on the intended use of the derivative and the resulting designation.

Statement No. 133 is effective for all fiscal quarters of fiscal years beginning after June 15, 2000. Earlier application of all of the provisions of this statement is encouraged by the FASB. Statement No. 133 contains further guidance on the initial application of this accounting standard.

Piecemeal adoption of Statement No. 133 is not permitted. Bank holding companies must adopt Statement No. 133 for FR Y-9C report purposes upon its effective date. Early application is permitted in the FR Y-9C report in accordance with the transition guidance in Statement No. 133. Bank holding companies are encouraged to consult with their outside accountants as they plan to implement this new standard.

After a bank holding company adopts Statement No. 133, its derivatives must be reported at fair value on the balance sheet (Schedule HC). Derivatives that are held for purposes other than trading that have positive fair values should be included on the balance sheet (Schedule HC) in item 11, "Other assets." Those held for purposes other than trading that have negative fair values should be included in the balance sheet (Schedule HC) in item 23, "Other liabilities." Derivatives held for trading should continue to be reported in trading assets or trading liabilities, as appropriate, on the balance sheet (Schedule HC) and, if applicable, in Part II of Schedule HC-B, Trading Assets and Liabilities.

In addition, the bank holding company should include any accumulated net gains (losses) on cash flow hedges on the balance sheet (Schedule HC) in 27(f). The year-to-date change in these accumulated net gains (losses) on cash flow hedges should be reported in the changes in equity capital schedule (Schedule HI-A) in item 13(b). Any transaction adjustments at the date of initial application of Statement No. 133 that must be reported as a cumulative-effect-type adjustment of net income should be included in the income statement (Schedule HI) in line item 12,
"Extraordinary items, net of applicable income taxes and minority interest," and disclosed separately in memorandum item 8(a)(1),
"Extraordinary items and other adjustments," with the applicable income tax effect reported in memorandum item 8(a)(2).
Memorandum item 8(a)(1) has been specifically designated for reporting the income statement effect of adopting Statement No.
133.

The transition provisions of Statement No. 133 provide that at the date of initial application, a bank holding company may transfer any debt security categorized as held-to-maturity into the available-for-sale category or the trading category without calling into question the bank holding company’s intent to hold other debt securities to maturity in the future. The transition provisions further require that the unrealized gain (loss) on a transferred held-to-maturity debt security be reported as part of the cumulative-effect-type adjustment of net income if transferred to the trading category or as part of the adjustment to the change in net unrealized holding gains (losses) on available-for-sale securities if transferred to the available-for-sale category. Any security transferred from the held-to-maturity category as of the date of adoption of Statement No. 133 and sold in the same fiscal quarter should have been transferred to the trading category, not the available-for-sale category. Thus, any unrealized gain (loss) on the security that exists on the date of transfer would be reported in the FR Y-9C report income statement in Schedule HI, item 12, “Extraordinary items, net of applicable taxes and minority interest,” and would not be included in the gain (loss) on the sale of the security in Schedule HI, item 6.b, “Realized gains (losses) on available-for-sale securities.”
