

Call for Abstracts: New York Fed Junior Macro Workshop

Deadline: Monday, August 24th, 2026

The Federal Reserve Bank of New York is organizing a one-day, in-person workshop for junior researchers in macroeconomics to be held on Friday, October 9th, 2026 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York in New York City. The workshop, which is sponsored by the New York Fed's Applied Macroeconomics and Econometrics Center, will feature a morning session with PhD student presenters followed by an afternoon session with junior faculty presenting. The goal is to provide an informal setting for junior researchers (both current PhD students and recent PhD graduates) to receive feedback from each other and Bank economists.

Submission Procedure

The organizers welcome theoretical and empirical submissions in macroeconomics, broadly defined. We are accepting submissions from PhD students to present in the morning session.

Presentation slots will be 20 minutes each, and work in progress is welcome (it is not necessarily expected that participants will have a draft or be entering the final year of their PhD). Please submit your abstract using this form by the deadline on Monday, August 24th, 2026.

Workshop Logistics

Lunch and refreshments will be provided; travel funding is not available. We expect the workshop to last from approximately 10am to 5:00pm.

We look forward to seeing many of you this fall; please address any questions to Jacob Weber (jake.weber@ny.frb.org)

Organizers: Keshav Dogra and Jacob Weber